Shareholder Litigation

When privately held companies find themselves facing internal disputes over shareholder matters, our attorneys can help them transform those potentially devastating situations into smoother, amicable circumstances.

Our professionals work diligently to bring stock and ownership-related disputes to swift resolution, no matter the size of the client. Our firm is poised to handle each situation with discretion, sensitivity and professionalism, whether an ownership disagreement exists between the company and its directors, between the company and its shareholders or between individual shareholders.

In short, when ownership parties can't reach amicable agreements on their own, we offer the expertise and knowledge to help bridge those gaps.
