A Heartfelt Thank you to Our Health Care Clients

Our firm would like to take time to say a heartfelt thank you to all of our health care clients and all other health care workers during this stressful time. You are working endless hours to protect and care for the vulnerable and sick. You are putting yourselves at risk while you spend time away from your families to care for others.

It is a sacrifice that many of us are not making, and for that we thank you. While many people are debating about whether to leave their houses, you are marching into this pandemic. We can only imagine the many issues you are addressing while trying to perform your jobs. We know you are worried about getting sick or bringing home the virus to your loved ones, losing your jobs or health insurance, how to keep your companies afloat, how to comply with new legal issues, and who will care for your children or whether you will be able to work while schools and daycares close, just to name a few.

A simple thank you does not seem adequate. If we can help you in any way or if you need any kind of legal advice, please reach out to us. We are more than willing to help.
