Manufacturing & Distribution

We form long-term relationships with our product manufacturer and distributor clients. Our clients look to us to know their businesses, anticipate their needs, recommend practical solutions and provide measureable value to their bottom line in both transactional and litigation matters.

When product-related accidents or injuries happen and as potential or actual claims develop, our clients look to us to protect their interests immediately following the accident, during the pre-suit investigation and in any litigation that follows. Our clients depend on our practical experience handling matters involving motor vehicles, medical devices and medications, consumer products, construction equipment, aircraft, tools, alleged asbestos-containing products, hazardous substances and other products.
